Course Overview

This six-day program is designed to develop elite-level performance coaches who can guide individuals, teams, and organizations toward sustained excellence. Unlike traditional performance management training, this program focuses on coaching as a strategic capability — helping participants master the art of unlocking potential, driving accountability, and shaping a culture of continuous improvement. Participants learn how to coach employees through goal setting, performance challenges, behavioral change, and development planning. They also gain mastery in KPIs, Balanced Scorecards, appraisal systems, and evidence-based coaching frameworks. Through simulations, coaching circles, and real-world case labs, participants emerge as confident performance coaches capable of transforming people and performance at scale.
