Course Overview

To coach effectively, a leader must see the "big picture" of performance beyond just financial or operational output. This session focuses on the Balanced Scorecard as a diagnostic framework for holistic coaching. Participants will learn to coach across four critical perspectives: financial, customer, internal processes, and learning/growth. By integrating these perspectives into departmental planning, coaches can help their teams understand the "why" behind their KPIs, leading to more meaningful engagement and a more resilient, balanced approach to achieving results.
