Course Overview

Employee turnover and low morale are some of the costliest and most misunderstood leadership challenges. This transformative training dives deep into the psychological, structural, and communication-based drivers of retention. Participants will uncover why incentives alone don't retain top talent, learn how to interpret feedback and behavioral signals, and explore strategies that embed recognition and purpose into the leadership culture. Using diagnostic labs, case-based dialogue, and emotionally intelligent leadership tools, attendees will build strategic action plans to reduce attrition and elevate morale. The program targets both emerging and seasoned leaders who seek practical, high-impact interventions grounded in behavioral science and people analytics.
